

HARMONY BETWEEN JAPAN AND AMERICA

Written by Koshi SHIMIZU.

My favorite variety is "Immaculate glitter".

This variety was bred by American W.A. Payne.

I really like the sound of the name and I think Mr. Payne has a very good naming sense.

The characteristic of this variety is the white edging of the flowers.

I felt that this edging was very compatible with the deep purple color.

This variety is far from a faint impression, and it seems that it is not accepted by the Japanese.

However, I think this combination of white edging and deep purple is the greatest attraction of this variety.
