

The Boy and the Sheep

The boy looks after the sheep on the field near the dark forest every day. It is his work. His only friend is his dog. He talks to his dog and he plays on his pipe. He wants to have fun.

The boy's master says, "If you see a wolf, shout, "Help!"
The boy wants to have fun. One day he runs to the village and shouts, "Wolf! Wolf!" The villagers stop their work and run to the forest. The boy laughs.

A few days later the boy shouts again, “Wolf! Wolf!” The villagers stop their work and run to the forest again. The boy laughs.

One evening the boy shouts, “Wolf! Wolf!” Nobody comes out. The villagers say, “He is fooling us again.” The wolf kills many sheep and returns to his den.